BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

The Hon. Angus Lewis Macdonald was born at Dunvegan, Inverness County, Nova Scotia, on 10 August, 1890, the son of Lewis and Veronica (Perry) Macdonald. He was educated at Port Hood Academy, Saint Francis Xavier University (B.A.), Dalhousie University (L.L.B. and Harvard University (S.J.D.)). After serving overseas in the 1-14 - 1918 War in the 25th and 185th Battalions, he taught and practised law in Halifax. Elected as a Liberal for Halifax South to the Nova Scotia Assembly in 1933, he was sworn in as Premier and Provincial Secretary on September 5, 1933. He resigned in 1940 to become Minister of National Defence for Naval Services and was elected to the House of Commons for Kingston, Ontario. In 1945 he resigned from the Dominion cabinet and resumed the Premiership of Nova Scotia. He died in office on 13 April, 1954.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The papers of Angus L. Macdonald date from 1933 (except for a few letters, 1921 - 1929) when he became premier and provincial secretary and continued to his death in 1954. They include personal and public correspondence for the periods when he was premier and federal minister for the Naval Services. Other papers of his premiership for the period 1933 - 36 are in RG 7, Volumes 231 - 2. Most of these are concerned with the Dominion-Provincial Conference of 1935. His official correspondence while Minister of the Naval Services is in the Public Archives of Canada.
