

REEL # 64A

7315-A -

7315-B -

7316-A -

Story of The St. Roch, told
by Staff Sergeant Larson,
R.C.W.P.

The Hunter Winds His Bugle
Horn, scratchy

Rabbit On The Rail Pile,

Ins. scratchy

Story of St. Roch

Maori Songs, New Zealand
slight, scratchy; singing pitched too high

152A. R.C.M.P. and English Rounds.

Recorded by Helen Creighton, March 18 and June 19, 1944.

1 at my home, 2 at Chebucto Head.

1. Talk by Staff Sergeant Larsen, R.C.M.P. on conditions in northern Canada. These take the first three strips.

4. The Hunter Winds His Bugle Horn.

5. Rabbit in the Rail Pile.

4 & 5 are rounds sung by Mrs. Edward Gallagher, Chebucto Head; aged about 50; wife of the lightkeeper.

152B.

Recorded by Helen Creighton.

March 18, 1944.

At my home, Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Informant; Staff Sergeant Larsen, Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

This is the beginning of his talk, but he found that he was too nervous before the microphone, and decided the only thing was for him to write out his talk and give it at some other time. So in a sense this is a spoiled side, although there might be something in the text which he did not give later, although I doubt it.

178A. Maori Songs.

Recorded by Helen Creighton,

May 10, 1944.

At Professor Douglas' house, Lower Sackville, Nova Scotia.

Singer; Alison MacClement. For biographical note see 179A.

1. Practise<sup>2</sup>
2. Haere Ra E Hine. (Poi Song).
3. Haere Atura.
4. Hoesa Ra , preceeded by description.
5. Mahare Ki A Au. (Remember Me.)
6. E Hine, E Hoki Mai. (Oh Maiden Return Hither.)

178B. Maori Songs.

Recorded by Helen Creighton.

May 10, 1944.

At Professor Douglas' house, Lower Sackville, Nova Scotia.

Singer; Alison MacClement. For biographical note see 179A.

1. Haere R.

2. Tahi nei Taru Kino

3. Titi-torea (Poi Song) and Huri-huri. Huri-huri means a quick dance of that particular type. The singers don't move their feet, but they move their bodies, and the song is accompanied by the swinging of the poi.

4. E Rere Taku Poi. (Poi Song).

Pronounced joy